

Natural Burial, Family-Directed Funerals and Rituals of Remembrance

Wednesday, April 19 & Saturday, April 22 River View Cemetery, Portland

Join us for heartfelt, practical learning and conversation at Portland's historic, non-profit River View Cemetery.

Attend all or part of our Symposium:

- Natural Death Care Workshop, Saturday, April 22, 9am-1pm
 - Natural Burial: Why, How, Where - led by David Noble, Executive Director of River View Cemetery & Jodie Buller, Cemetery Manager for White Eagle Memorial Preserve
 - Home Funerals, DIY Memorials & Other Rituals of Remembrance - led by Holly Pruett, Life-Cycle Celebrant
 - Tour River View Cemetery following the workshop (optional)
- Conversation Game, Wednesday, April 19, 7-9pm
 - Play a fun, thought-provoking conversation game about living and dying well
 - Leave with a booklet of questions to share with family and friends, and a personal Next Steps Guide to inform your decisions about healthcare proxy, advance directive, caregiver support, and memorialization
 - In partnership with National Health Care Decisions Day
- Connect with others who want their death to reflect the environmental values they've practiced in life

Celebrate Earth Day & National Health Care Decisions Day with us this April!

Attend one or both Portland events:

Wednesday, April 19
7-9pm River View Cemetery:
Conversation Game

Saturday, April 22
9am-1pm River View Cemetery:
Natural Death Care Workshop

Or attend our Natural Death Care Symposium in the Columbia Gorge, April 1-2

Space is limited! Register and reserve your spot today. Details on DeathTalkProject.com or search Eventbrite.

Presented as a community service by the non-profit burial grounds River View Cemetery & White Eagle Memorial Preserve in partnership with Holly Pruett, Life-Cycle Celebrant, & the Death Talk Project, with support from Passages International & the Hood River Library.

